FOREWORD

WE OFFER this book to the clergy and religious, trusting that both the content and the manner of presenting it will invite study and thus assist them in working out problems of their own.

With this end in view, various plans, sketches and photographic reproductions are placed before the observer without giving any technical descriptions that might divert from the purpose intended.

The examples selected for study are of recent construction, which should give an additional appeal to the illustrations. They are shown as graphically as the method will allow.

Those who bear the responsibility that building undertakings involve, may find this volume a source of information on several practical features that have been worked out in the structures represented throughout the book. If this end is attained, we count the issue well worth bringing out.

IF ARCHITECTURE AND UTILITY ARE INSEPARABLE, DIRECT IMITATION OF NEITHER ANCIENT NOR MODERN EXAMPLES CAN FULFILL THE REQUIREMENTS OF A NEW PROBLEM. UTILITY IS THE BASIS OF ARCHITECTURE, YET BY THIS VIRTUE ALONE, ONE DOES NOT PRODUCE ARCHITECTURE, BUT MERELY A BUILDING

THE VERY PURPOSE OF A CHURCH CALLS FOR MORE THAN A MERE SHELL OF STONE, WOOD, WALLS, AND ROOF. LEAVING OUT HALF THE ACCESSORIES MEANS THE SACRIFICE OF THE CHARM OF HARMONY IN ITS ENTIRETY. IT IS ONLY FAIR TO EXPECT PROPER DIRECTION OF THE EXECUTION OF ALL THE SUBSIDIARY ARTS IN THE HONEST AND FAITHFUL DISCHARGE OF THE PROFESSION.

WHILE DESIGN IN ITSELF IS AN ESSENTIAL FACTOR, SUPERVISION OF BUILDING OPERATIONS BY COMPETENT SUPERINTENDENTS IS OF EQUAL IMPORTANCE. SUCH AN ARRANGEMENT CONTRIBUTES TO SOUND CONSTRUCTION, AND PERMITS THE ARCHITECT TO DEVOTE HIS VISITS TO OTHER CONSIDERATIONS NECESSARY IN PRODUCING SATISFACTORY RESULTS
